Spelling Drill Reference Manual

Introduction

The Spelling Drill Reference Manual is intended as a basic listing of the most common intervals, chord and scale spellings in modern music practice. These spellings may be used in a variety of musical applications but the book is fundamentally designed for the practice of spelling drills.

Spelling Drills simply involve the vocal or mental recital of note sequences in much the same way as we might play the same notes on a musical instrument. This practice method is applied more thoroughly in The Study Book Of Spelling Drills by the same author (visit www.talkingbass.net for more details).

The ebook is divided into three main sections: Intervals, Chords and Scales. Intervals are listed from each chromatic note, natural notes followed by accidentals.

Chords are subdivided into Triads, Seventh Chords, Added Note Chords, Suspensions and Extended Chords. Altered extensions are not listed due to the huge number of possibilities. It is assumed that altered extensions can be simply devised on the fly once the student has succeeded in committing all previous foundational listings to memory.

The scale section is subdivided into common scales, modes of the major, harmonic minor and melodic minor scales before finishing with an assortment of less common exotic and synthetic scales. The author has attempted to limit double sharps and flats to a minimum while keeping intervallic relationships as theoretically correct as possible.

About The Author

Mark J Smith is a professional bass player from the UK and creator of www.talkingbass.net. During the past 20 years Mark has worked all over the UK and the World as a sideman and bandleader, performing every style of music from pop to rock to jazz to classical in ensembles ranging from trio to orchestra. As a reading sideman, Mark has worked with hundreds of acts such as Jimmy James, Susan Maughn, Peter Grant, Bucks Fizz, Ruthie Henshall, Zoe Tyler, Gerard Kenny, Iris Williams, Elaine Delmar, Barbara Dickson and many, many more.

Mark has a First Class BA(hons) Degree in Music from Leeds College Of Music and many years of experience teaching in music colleges and universities around the UK.
